HOUSE, FARM AND GARDEN.

We invite communications from all persons who are interested in matters properly belonging to this department.

The Blue Glass Cure.

A New York correspondent of the Chicago Tribune writes as follows of test he has made of General Pleasanton's blue glass cure:

"A lady of my family, about six weeks ago, had a violent hemorrhage of the lungs, and for ten days raised more or less blood daily. She was very much weakened by the loss of blood, and considerably frightened withal. I obtained some blue glass and placed it in the window where she was in the habit of sitting, the blue glass constituting one-half of the lower sash of the window. The lady sat daily in the associated lights, allowing the blue rays especially to fall upon the nerves of the back of the neck for about an hour a day. The second day the sun's rays being unusually strong, she got 'too much blue glass,' and at night felt a peculiar sensation in the back of the neck among the nerves and an unpleasant fullness in the head. The sensation wore off next day, and since then she has not remained so long at a time under the blue glass.

"But from the first she began to grow stronger, her face soon gained its natural fullness, and in a week she was, to all appearances, as well as ever. Of course she was not cured of the trouble in her lungs in so short a time, but the soreness in her chest has passed away, and she begins to feel well again. After sitting in the associated light for a week a large number of red pimples came out on her neck and shoulders, an indication that the treatment was bringing out to the surface the humors of the blood. In a letter to me General Pleasanton says: 'I am satisfied that if this treatment shall be continued through the winter and spring any tuberculous development that may exist in the lungs will be arrested, its pus absorbed into the circulation, and then thrown off from the blood in the excretions (as has occurred already in the spots on the body,) the wounds of the tubercles will be cicatrized and the lady restored to a condition of good health.'

"In the same letter General Pleasanton relates an agreeable incident which occurred to him but a few weeks since. A lady and her daughter called to see him, and announced that they had come from Corning, N. Y., to Philadelphia for the express purpose of thanking him for saving the daughter's life. Four years ago she was afflicted with a violent attack of spinal meningitis. Her sufferings were indescribable but continuous. Every conceivable remedy had been resorted to during these four years, but the patient received no benefit. Her nervous system at last became so disordered that the slightest sound or the most gentle agitation of the air threw her into the most agonizing suffering. She was wasted away in flesh, she could not sleep at night, had no appetite, and her life was despaired of. Hearing of General Pleasanton's discovery in associated lights, her parents determined to try it. A bay window was fitted with alternate plates of blue and plain glass, and the young lady sat daily in the light which streamed through them. Her physicians, of course, laughed at the idea, pronounced the whole thing a humbug, etc., as is the habit of professional gentlemen whenever any new idea is broached. The physician was dismissed, and the young lady replied entirely upon the blue glass treatment for her restoration to health. The lady says that upon entering the room thus lighted the pains from which she was suffering almost immediately ceased, then would return in a modified form on leaving the room, but grew less from day to day. Very soon her condition began to improve, her appetite returned, and with it her strength. She began to gain flesh, her sleeplessness disappeared, and, in short, she was speedily restored to health.

"A singular feature of this young lady's case, was that her hair came out and she became as bald as an egg. Her physician examined the scalp with a microscope, and declared that there were no roots of hair remaining, and that, consequently, she would never again have a natural head of hair. Under the blue glass treatment, however, the hair did begin to grow, the young lady discarded her wig, and when she called upon General Pleasanton she showed him a luxuriant growth of hair, which any young lady might envy."

Cure for Chlithlains.

The following treatment has given general satisfaction: Melt together in a suitable vessel 3 ozs. beeswax, 3 ozs. Venice turpentine, 8 ozs. lard, and 1 pint sweet oil. Stir these well together and raise the temperature till the mixture simmers; then allow to cool. This should be applied to the feet on a piece of cloth when going to bed.

THE SUN.

1877. NEW YORK. 1877.

The different editions of THE SUN during the next year will be the same as during the year that has just passed. The daily edition will on week days be a sheet of four pages, and on Sundays a sheet of eight pages, or 32 broad columns; while the weekly edition will be a sheet of eight pages of the same dimensions and character that are already familiar to our readers.

THE SUN will continue to be the strenuous advocate of reform and retrenchment, and of the substitution of statesmanship, wisdom and integrity for hollow pretence, insubordination, and fraud in the administration of public affairs. It will contend for the government of the people by the people and for the people, as opposed to government in the ballot box and in the counting of votes, enforced by military violence. It will endeavor to supply its readers—a body now not far from a million of souls—with the most careful, complete, and trustworthy accounts of current events, and will employ for this purpose a numerous and carefully selected staff of reporters and correspondents. Its reports from Washington, especially, will be full, accurate and fearless; and it will doubtless continue to deserve the hatred of those who thrive by plundering the Treasury or by usurping what the law does not give them, while it will endeavor to merit the confidence of the public by defending the rights of the people against the encroachments of unjustified power. The price of the daily SUN will be 55 cents a month or $5.50 a year, post paid, or with the Sunday edition $7.50 a year.

The SUNDAY edition alone, eight pages, $1.20 a year.

The WEEKLY SUN, eight pages of 56 broad columns, will be furnished during 1877 at the rate of $1 a year, post paid. The benefit of this large reduction from the previous rate for THE WEEKLY SUN can be enjoyed by individual subscribers without the necessity of making up clubs. At the same time, if any of our friends choose to aid in extending circulation we shall be grateful to them, and every such person who sends ten or more subscribers from one place will be entitled to one copy of the paper for himself without charge. At one dollar a year, postage paid, the expenses of paper and printing are handsomely repaid; and, considering the size of the sheet and the quality of its contents, we are confident the people will consider THE WEEKLY SUN the cheapest newspaper published in the world, and we trust also one of the very best. Address, THE SUN, New York City, N. Y.
